

WAKES THE DEEP

Written by

Logan Pompa

INT. UNDERWATER LAB - AFTERNOON

SUPER;

Takes place underwater in a lab, where the team returns to recover a failed experiment. But when they arrive, it seems things have gone wrong. Above the water, the world is facing overpopulation, and this parasite will kill off most of the population to help bring down the numbers. Little do they know the parasite affects humans in a different kind of way.

In 1988, a government-funded experiment on a rig at sea began to rise to help with future overpopulation. As time passed and technology evolved, in 2016, they moved into the sea with an underwater laboratory. They keep working to perfect this experiment, and things go wrong below, but the world above never knows.

INT. UNDERWATER LAB - DAY

We take place down in the lab and there are two scientists working on an experiment we have DR. MARLIN (5'9 tall, moderately fat so, overweight, white male, 34, brown hair. Determined to see his family back home, he loves his work. Upper-class doctorate in marine biology.) and DR. ANGLER (5'11 tall, skinny white male with white hair and balding 53 years old. Arrogant, egotistical, and dementia throughout the story.) They must work together to better heal this world.

In the lab we see tubes and flasks and the scientists experimenting on the project.

(COMPUTER SYSTEM V.O.)
Experiment failed.

DR. ANGLER
(frustrated)
Damn... Another one failed

DR. MARLIN
Don't worry we will get there. We just need to keep at it.

They head to their desk to write down what notes they have of the failure.

DR. ANGLER
We could splice the DNA and replicate our findings?

DR. MARLIN
You think that would work?

DR. ANGLER
It has to... I don' know what else would.

DR. MARLIN
Alright, let's give it a shot.

INT. UNDERWATER LAB - MIDNIGHT

Dr. Angler got up from his sleep and had to continue without Dr. Marlin; after a few hours of experimenting, he tested the new solution on a lab rat and he finally found success. The flask with the solution exploded, and some of the solutions got on Dr. Angler.

INT. COMMISSARY - MORNING

The next day, they both wake up and head to the commissary to have breakfast together with the other scientists. Dr. Marlin wonders why Dr. Angler is acting strangely around him.

DR. MARLIN
(worried)
Soo... how is your morning going?

DR. ANGLER
It's pretty good, had a really good idea about what we can do.

DR. MARLIN
Oh do you now?

As Dr. Angler talks about his morning, Dr. Marlin notices something on his skin that looks abnormal, and his pupils are dilated.

DR. MARLIN (CONT'D)
What's going on, you seem off?

Dr. Angler just sits there, avoiding the question, and returns to talking about his morning.

Dr. Marlin stares at Angler while he's talking. He then looks at the table and notices that Dr. Angler's food hasn't been touched at all. The food starts to have spots with greenish colors. Then Dr. Marlin sits and approaches him, lifts his sleeve, and notices all this coral-like substance growing on his body.

INT. UNDERWATER LAB - MORNING

Dr. Marlin makes his way to the lab; upon entering the lab, it is completely taken over by the coral-like substance.

DR. MARLIN
(scared)
What in the hell.

As he stands, he is shocked of what he sees. Dr. Marlin makes a fist upon realizing who has done this. Dr. Angler is standing behind him menacingly, waiting for the right opportunity to strike at Dr. Marlin.

Dr. Marlin turns around and dodges the attack, nearly avoiding it. Marlin runs off while Dr. Angler runs after him.

INT. UNDERWATER LAB HALLWAY'S - MORNING

They are running down the hallways of the underwater lab. Dr. Marlin is grabbing what he can to slow Dr. Angler down to give himself time to get far away from the monster. Dr. Marlin continues down the hallway and finds a infirmary, he runs in and locks the door and boards it up with what is super heavy.

INT. INFIRMARY - AFTERNOON

Dr. Marlin has gotten in and is locked down and safe. But outside the door Dr. Angler or whatever was left was standing there, then he starts to hit the door over and over getting louder and louder.

DR. MARLIN
(terrified)
What have you done, why did you do this without me. Why did you let your ego get the best of you. Now look at you a monster, a product of something that could of helped this world, but turned out to be nothing but a danger to society.

The banging stops and Dr. Angler walks away from the door as if he heard what his friend had to say. Only thing Dr. Marlin could do was just sit there in the infirmary and survive off of IV's and whatever food that could be there. Now he must survive, alone with no one to help. Wondering if this nightmare will ever end.